Hi Peter,

Thanks for your interest in the aspiring supervisor program. As you know, the financial outlook for the lab is bleak. We have eliminated most of our overtime funding and are preparing for another round of layoffs. While I am in favor of personal development for everyone, it is difficult in the current fiscal climate to justify granting a request for anyone to be away from their regular job duties for an average of 2 days per month, especially if their absence might result in the need for overtime for a colleague.

There are shorter, more targeted supervisory classes offered periodically that could be a better option for you.

Thanks, Julie
